

GENERAL ORDERS

WAR DEPARTMENT

Adjutant General's Office

Washington, October 11, 1861.

No. 89

The following plan for supplying the volunteer officers and soldiers in the service of the United States, is now in force: It is to be understood, that no supplies shall be turned over to any other troops of the United States, except those specially directed by the General Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS,

WAR DEPARTMENT,

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,

Washington, October 11, 1861.

No. 89.

Supplies forwarded by particular States for their volunteers in the service of the United States, will be turned over to the proper staff departments of the Army, and issued, according to law and regulations, to the troops of the States for which they were specially intended. But as such supplies will eventually be charged to the United States, any that may remain in excess of regulation allowances, may, when so directed by the General Commanding, be issued to any other troops in the service of the United States standing in need of them.

BY ORDER:

JULIUS P. GARESCHÉ,

Assistant Adjutant General.

OFFICIAL:

Supplies will be made to particular States, and identified, in such numbers and upon the terms that would be required of the general himself, at least one month before being delivered by the General Commanding, or the personnel and issued by the General Adjutant General, or the Assistant Adjutant General. Any supplies so delivered, will be held in trust for the government, and shall be returned to the General Adjutant General, or the Assistant Adjutant General, if the same are not used by the general or his command, or if they will not be used by the command, at the time appointed by the General, who may understand all the circumstances of the person to whom he has been granted, or the value of the supplies so delivered.
